Why should I come?:

Competitive AoS is amazing but going to events can be intimidating. The Hero Phase is a beginner friendly tournament where all players actively try to help their opponents play the best game possible. This means:

- Explain your army and how it works, is it better on the charge? Teleports? Movement tricks?
- If you see something that is going to lead to a feel bad moment say something “remember I have enough CP to counter charge” or “x mini still has always strike first” or maybe “I've got about an 18” threat range”
- Play with intent, “I'm moving them to outside of 3”, “I'm keeping this unit outside of 9”, “I'm removing the misses”
- Pre measure and seek agreement, “are you happy that's a 7” charge?”, “I think x is in range, what do you think?
- Smile and have fun with our toy soldiers

What do I need to bring?:

At the event you will need:

- A 2000pt matched play army built using all normal army composition rules (using Warhammer Age of Sigmar, Matched Play Battlepack, General's Handbook 2025-26)
- Dice, tape measure, tokens to help you remember what buffs and debuffs you have going on
- A way to reference your rules (app, book etc)

There are some things that are nice to have like:

- 3" and 9" measuring sticks
- A cheat sheet to help you remember all your cool abilities and avoid the feel bad of forgetting your rules! Example
- Different colour dice for health/prayer points/faction specific mechanics
- The 2025-6 GHB and objectives

What battle plans will we play?

Often battle plans are announced on the day or kept hidden. Ours will be released in advance so you can practice and get to know each one as it makes your games on the day more enjoyable.

They have also been chosen for an easy underdog mechanic and simple battle plan twists.

Round 1: Linked Lay lines
Round 2: life cycle
Round 3: passing seasons
