

Unit+ is a newly founded fintech company in Berlin that likes to build a bridge between the payment and the investment worlds in order to make sustainable investment in the stock market frictionless and accessible to everybody. For this, we are creating the world's first investment application with an investment card. Backed by well-known business angels and startup advisors.

Unit+ is looking for a statistics "wizard" to help us develop our humanized advisor that takes bank card transactions into account to construct capital market portfolios. Additionally, your brain power is needed on a concept for dynamic investment card limits.

What we offer

- A high-impact position, in which you are given the opportunity to shape the future of the organization as an intern as much as all other team members
- 1.200€ monthly salary and the option to start working full time at Unit+ after university
- Passionate colleagues who work enthusiastically on the product and believe that the Unit+ investment card belongs into every (digital-) wallet

Your responsibilities

- You will help us construct sustainable and well diversified capital market portfolios that are matching user expectation
- You help us to calculate dynamic investment card spending limits
- You speak with cooperation partners, investors as well as experts to help us consolidate the product ideas
- We value feedback and motivation more than everything else, so you are free to raise your voice at any topic you like to

Your skills

- Bachelor degree in mathematics, statistics or physics
- Profound knowledge of capital markets
- Number crunching skills
- Knowing the difference between correlation and causation
- Knowledge of the fintech or banking world is a plus, but not required

Your profile

- You are a pragmatic optimist, you have the ability to motivate and inspire others, you have a can-do attitude and you are taking ownership of the work you are doing
- You are highly motivated, with an entrepreneurial and agile mindset
- You are fluent in English and German and are happy to work with international colleagues and partners
- You are somebody who is fun to work with! No rockstars, no lone-wolves allowed at Unit+
- Pragmatism over perfection. You know how to prioritize and get stuff done

Contact: Fabian.Mohr@unitplus.eu