Ripples 0.6 was an insanely good update

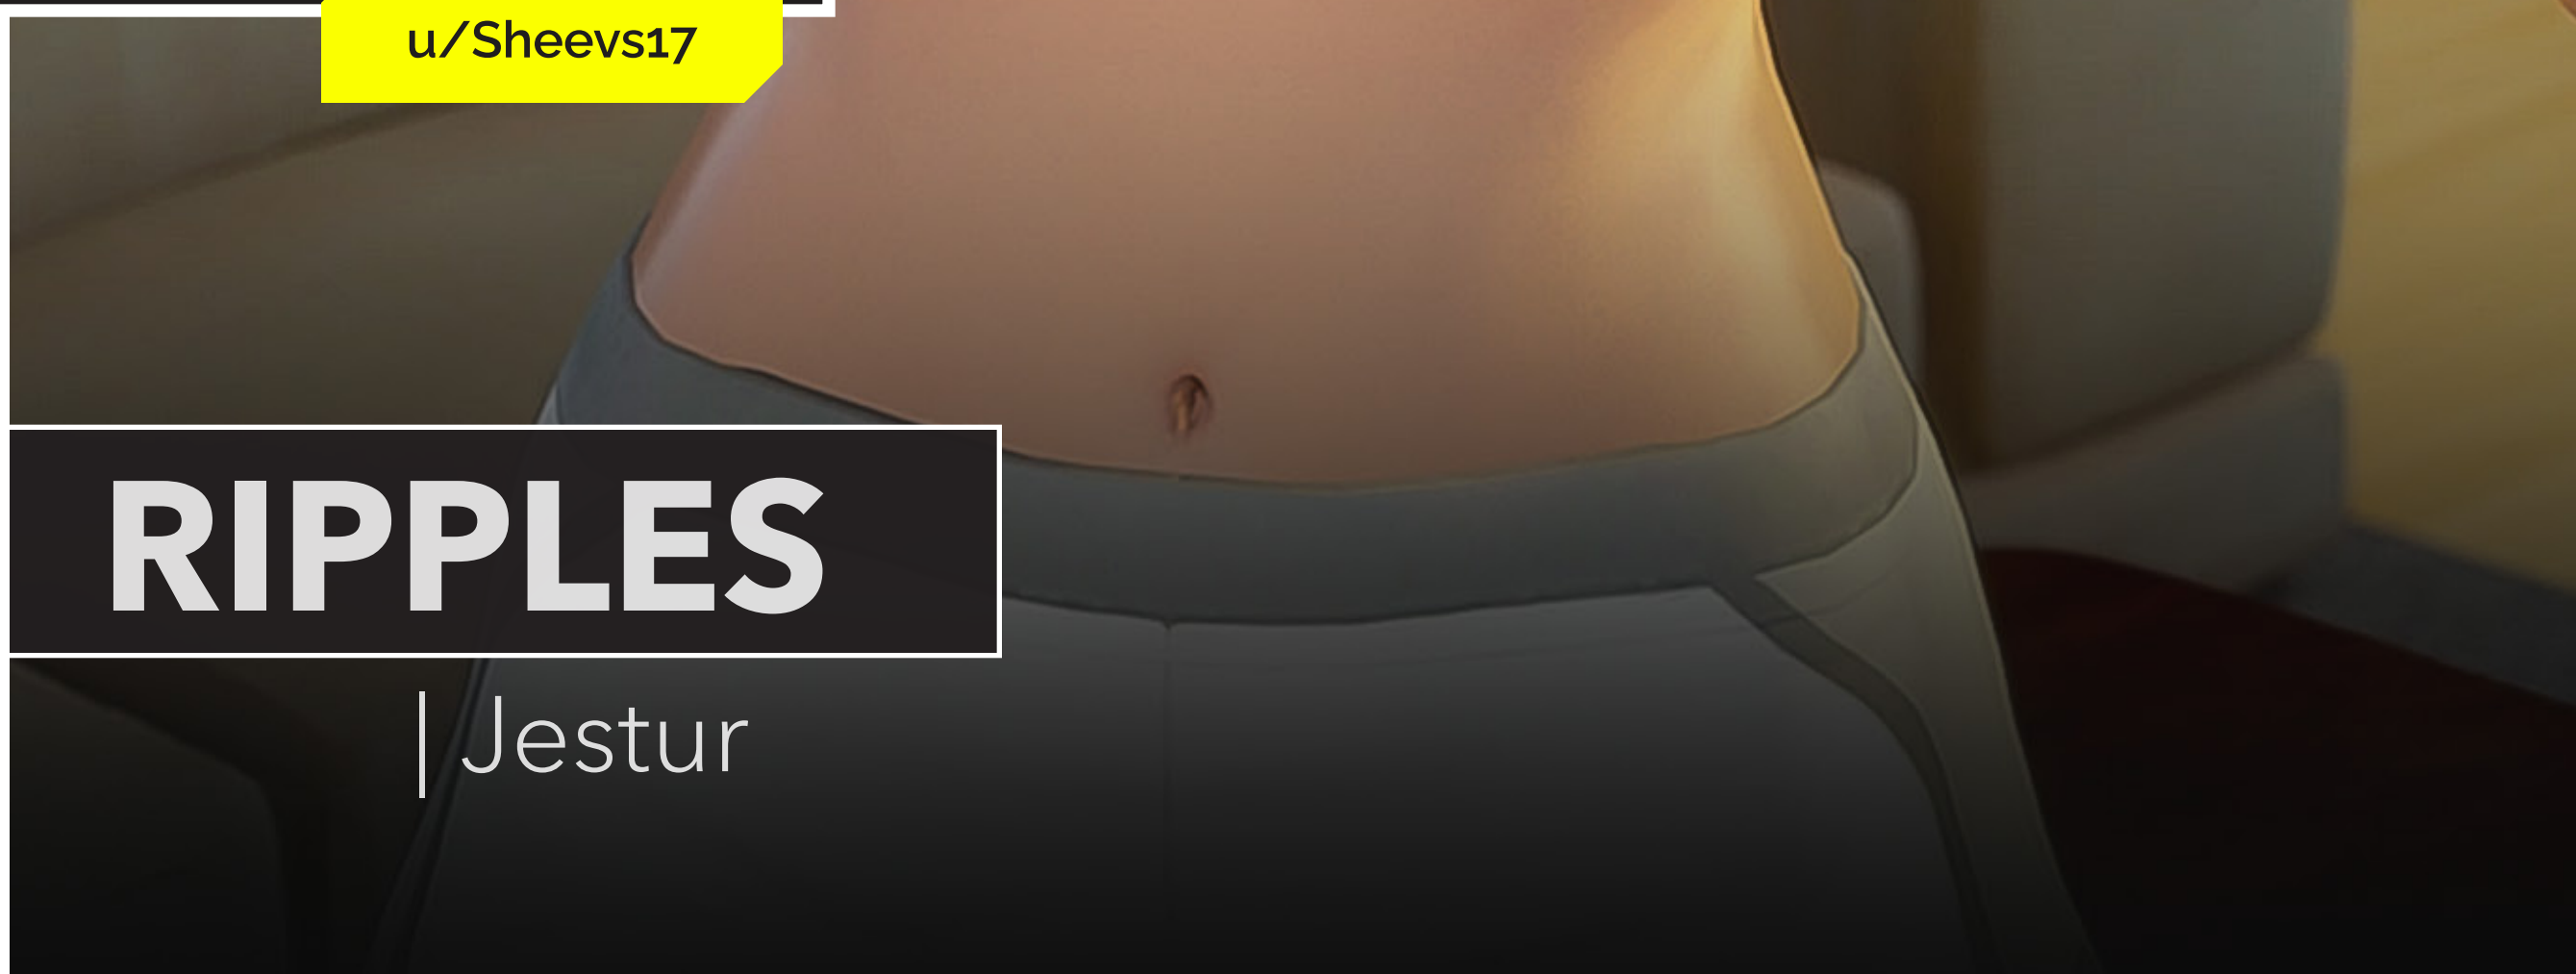

The length of the update was way more than the average length of updates in recent times, and since it comes about 6 months after the last update, the dev deserves major credit in this field.

I agree that there wasnt much clear cut plot development in the update, but there was just enough hints to keep the reader entranced in the story and to keep the story flowing.

The scenes in this update were insane, with 2 incredibly sexy scenes (one being a double scene) and one being a contender for entry into the top scenes of AVN HISTORY (Much like the Alex scene in eternum and the Hannah scene in Pale Carnations)

The animations in this update were world class and it definitely deserves a lot of credit!

ABOUT

Version: 0.24Release Date: 11-09-2023

Hey!

We use ethically generated AI image generation models to make characters and backgrounds for the adult visual novel titled "Into The Country". All characters are designed traditionally, and all images are original and carefully attributed to a genre/style rather than specific artists, and all credits are given where needed. Most of the images undergo manual editing.

Game synopsis:

In the modern world of screens, forest fires, and apathy, a man (you) decides to quit his job and leave it all behind for a quiet mountain town in the North.

Meet a host of interesting characters to interact with (and possibly b*ng) and maybe even find love in the countryside!

Lately I find myself enjoying non harem AVN more

Just something that has been on my mind lately since I been playing AVN for a few years and probably played hundreds of them at this point and I have seen a shift in my preferences as I played more and more AVN.

I find myself lately looking and gravitating towards AVN that make you choose only one girl at a time I find it to be more interesting and thrilling the high stakes of having to choose and get to know each girls route separately or risking it all by going manwhore route and paying for your actions.

I also love the whole aspect of the drama that unfolds in non harem games especially when doing multiple girls in one run and some of them getting jealous or dumping one girl for another.

I still love plenty of Harem games and some of them are absolutely fantastic like Eternum and MBML, but the harem genre does tend to bore me a bit because I feel like the stakes are always too low and everything is way too safe there is never any danger of a girl dumping you because you're banging another girl or risk of not getting a girls path because you decided on another one.

My main problem with harem games I guess is that I don't find the journey very rewarding because I already know the outcome and that's the MC banging every girl and all of them being ok with each other or around each other and that you don't build a genuine two person only intimate relationship instead its just one big open relationship.

I do have to point out that I play AVN purely for the story and relationship building aspect and never for the lewds so maybe that could be one of the reasons I prefer non harem AVN but I could see the total opposite of someone liking harem games more if their priorities is more the lewds since they get more action without having to replay the games for other routes.

So what do you guys prefer non harem or pure harem? and do you guys play for story or lewds? curious to see what others think about this.

Straight bros: Would you play a game with gay sex content if the bottom is very feminine?

Doing some early storyboarding for a game, and trying to wrap my head around what aspects appeal to both gay and straight audiences.

Secondary question would be "If yes, would you play if bottom was a protagonist, or only as a side quest for a straight protagonist"?

Thanks in advance for the feedback. I've had previous feedback along the lines of "I'd fuck anything if it looks like a girl (no 'masc' sex partners)", or "will fuck as long as you don't make me a cuck", etc etc. Feel free to add anything helpful about what non-straight content you would/wouldn't consider playing in a game. Human sexuality is complicated lulz credit!

u/VNNNewb

How and why did you start in the AVN world?

In my case, i was just trying to get out of my confort zone and going for something different. And we all know how much this sub genre is treated like a joke by the "real gamers" (lol), so I came in on my lowest expectations and found out one of the best gaming communities with (some) great authors that put all of them passion on writing good characters and dialogues and I really don't regret it!
