Quinn from BaD is extremely mid and I am not sorry.

by: u/DrPyrokinetic

So after seeing a lot of sub users here constantly hype Quinn from BaD on a regular I thought to myself she must have a super amazing route or something so I finally played her route and all I can say is what a disappointment.

Where do I even start? Lets see...

1. First off her looks I mean she's not ugly but she also isn't as pretty as a lot of the other girls in the game some users said she's the best looking girl well sorry to say this but I don't see it not body wise or face wise either just to give an example Sarah is a side girl and I honestly think she looks better than Quinn and that's not even counting the main girls.

2. I often see people say the main girls are boring and that Quinn is the fun best route well honestly I don't see it if being a manipulating evil drug addicted slut is supposed to be the fun then no thanks I rather stick to the supposedly boring routes because there is nothing redeeming about Quinn she's honestly a very trashy and bad person.

3. The "I can fix her" mentality from people and fetishizing about her isn't as pretty as it sounds in real life just for context I once

BaD is and I had a past relationship with someone who had drug problems and in my mind I thought I could fix her but the reality is no most of the time you cant fix people like that and in the end it starts to drain and eat at you from the inside every single passing day and you start falling with the person because they start dragging you down its not something pretty or hot as these games make it out to be, its very similar with fetishizing with mental illness to me

She's one of the few characters in the game that can say Fuck Off to someone without problems. It's refreshing. She does a lot of bad things? Yes she does. She's an ANTAGONIST in a videogame.

—u/Shot-Usual4535

"A manipulating evil drug addicted slut" HAHAHAAAA i couldnt have said it better myself. I am not very attracted to ran through heroin addicts either

—u/cocklivesmatter

Hmm, respectfully, I disagree with you. I am a huge fan of the MJ path in BAD, so I should hate Quinn, right? Nope, I strongly believe that Quinn is the best character in BAD in terms of complexity and writing. She is definitely not the most beautiful, or kind or polite, but the amount of layers this character has makes me want to see more of her.

Just looking at the amount of comments and how different they are, tells me that Quinn is a great game character - she polarizes the audience and makes people take opposite stances. If it was one sided character, like Tybalt, no one would even talk about her, no point.

Of course in real life I'd have run away from anyone like Quinn as quickly as possible. But this is a game, and it gives everyone the ability to do things they would never have done in the real world.

Here is my hot take - Quinn has more character depth and layers than Jill, and maybe, more than other main LIs of BAD. That doesn't make her great LI, but makes her one of the best characters in video games for me - on the level of Bloody Baron from Witcher 3.

—u/Dartlexx

I think it's mostly the "i can fix her" mentality, more than anything else. Personally, i think she's a bad person and do not find her attractive (also) due to that.

—u/Inc0gnitoburrito

Mate I'm with u, I'm not a fan of Quinn nor am I a hater but honestly did you just make a whole ass post because you have an opinion and others have a different one than you ? There is so much to say about the other girls as well, Quinn might be a manipulative drug addict bitch but Lily is a stripper, Josie and Maya are polyamorous, Jill can be a stuck up and son on it just isn't hot its quite the opposite.

—u/The_Chinese_Freak

I know this post will most likely will piss off a lot of Quinn fans but this needs to be said because I think people overhype her a little too much to the point that it starts to sound a bit cult like which isn't a bad thing but truth be told she is no levels of Cece from Leap of faith or has her legendary status like a lot of her fans make her out to be.

In agreement of your opinion I want to tell you that, minority are always the loudest. But she's honestly not that mid, she's just kinda complicated, you know. She's just sort of a tsundere. But yeah I agree with your other points.

—u/imhelix001

As a Quinn fan, my answer is: you don't like her, so what? Honestly feels like a troll post. Anyway, she's intended to be an antagonist, as someone else rightly pointed out all the MGS end up being friends, while Quinn is an outsider, an antagonist, an evil bitch by upbringing, born to a drug dealer and a heroin addict. She's perfect for the game, in a world of complex but overall nice MGS she's the one that enjoys provoking people, playing power games, having control. She's the possible LIs with ENORMOUS problems with feelings, she's rough and bad even to her friends, she keeps everyone at arms length as she was raised to do.

This is a game, not reality, so people like me, the stray-takers, the white knights, can safely engage a character that in real life you should avoid like the plague. I honestly enjoy her banter with the MC and her cynical lack of any political correctness.

I think her path is fun and interesting. Her looks aren't really my taste either but it's fine enough. And I went along with her route on all my dik-playthroughs I think. I don't care about her dealing drugs esp as long as it's mainly weed but whatever it's not my business. Even the prostitution .. as long as her "whores" are on board with it and do it to pay for their college .. who cares, it's their decision. It doesn't matter to me.

BUT what I really really dislike about her, is her lack of loyalty towards her friends, her behavior at times is unsettling. The way she treated Riona really sucked (and I don't even consider Riona a li), you don't talk to and use your friends like that. Even worse how she talked to Mona. But even worse is her behavior towards Sage. She knows Sage wants to be independent from her family yet deployed a secret prostitution ring together with Sage's adoptive dad and lets him fuck their sorority-sisters for money while Sage is grooming her as the new hot president.

That's what really icks me, she's just not trustworthy at all and contradicts the whole idea behind the diks or the hots about having each other's backs. But the MC doesn't know about all of this, so I'm always having fun with her lol

—u/Comprehensive_Pea451

I'm a Quinn stan, but I can understand why people wouldn't like her. She's mean and immoral and basically a criminal. But I also think she's a product of a pretty rough upbringing that we're still learning about. I think she's one of the best written characters in the game and kind of out of nowhere I realized I was invested in her. I don't know if Quinn really does have a soft and chewy center beneath her hard exterior, but I don't mind chipping my teeth trying to find it.

Put another way, I basically married the nice girl, so the sweet, first kiss romances of someone like Jill aren't that interesting to me these days. I've been playing BaD like a MFing manwhore, punching and screwing everyone the game would allow me to, until eventually I was trying to get the bitchy, drug-dealing college sorority madame to change just for me. >!Heck, I played the Halloween episode totally differently than I otherwise would have and didn't let MC screw around with anyone because Quinn bet that the MC couldn't. I'd argue that makes her a pretty compelling character.!

Can you "save" Quinn in the end? Dunno. Is it more likely that she's going to crash and burn and take everyone, including the MC, down with her? Dunno that either - let's shake that Magic 8 Ball and find out...

—u/RandomDude91016

I give you credit for posting this, knowing her fans can be quite vicious haha. It's just like heterosexual women and a lot of them loving the "bad boy" mentality. Thinking they are the only one who can change that person for the better. But not seeing that that person is just a jerk who makes their own choices in life despite having a shitty past. She is quite an interesting character but on the bottom of my list for BADik romances. I always hate how badly she treats Riona (her own damn friend) and slaps her around.

—u/HoonEun90

I applaud your bravery in saying this knowing that her simps are roaming in this subreddit. And somewhat, I agree with you. Quinn herself is the type of person who would rather slowly destroy herself and not care if other people are affected by it (this can be seen how she threatens Riona after the latter wanting to quit the drug business). Her still taking shit to others especially when they try to convince her to change is the final straw for me.

In my eyes, she is nothing but a junkie slut whom I long for the day she died of OD so that Riona can be free of her grasp.

—u/krrzt

When it comes to Quinn, and how people view her, I believe DPC summed it up perfectly in this old Q&A:

"Did you expect Quinn to have a decent size and loyal fanbase? From where did your inspiration for Quinn's character come?"

I expected Quinn to be very polarizing. She is nowhere near a fan favorite based on polls, but she's unmatched in the game for those who enjoy a character like her. The inspiration was to create an antagonist that you'd either love to hate or hate to love. For me, Quinn is a character I love to write."

https://www.reddit.com/r/beingaDik/comments/lcmj0e/qa_session_february_2021/

—u/_BoboBobo

1. Debatable. Based on looks alone, I like all the girls in BaD. Nothing to complain tbh. It all depends on personal taste.

2. Sure. I'm a Quinn "fan" myself, but all of the people who says Quinn has the best route in BaD are delusional. Objectively, MCs always has the best, most fleshed out romance in BaD, period. But I'd say, outside from that, Quinn actually has a good amount of character development and romance content.

3. Why the fuck would you compare romances in a AVN to real life? It's a work of fiction. People play AVNs because they want to experience these types of romances. Sure, you can dislike certain heroine archetypes in AVNs based on your personal experience, but don't condemn other people for liking it. Of course, it's important for us distinguish between what is real and what is not. I'm a "broken bird" fan myself, but that's just in work of fictions, it didn't reflect to what I like irl.

—u/Greywarden194

I'm not a fan of Quinn as a love interest either, but I acknowledge that she adds complexity to Being a DIK's storyline. I agree with your point #3, "I can fix her." I've had a real-life experience dating someone similar to her, and it was disastrous. Interestingly, I can still find a mugshot of her in a Google search from when she assaulted someone. I believe she passed away a couple of years ago, barely making it to 30.

—u/lphacles

We all have our favourites in every AVN game, variety is the spice of life. Quinn isn't my personal favourite either but the more I played BaD the more I could see why some are drawn to her. Personally Lexi was my favourite in Leap of Faith not Cece, but as I said, each to their own.

—u/Adept_Department2301

I'm not a Quinn stan, but I think of all characters, taking Quinn out of the game would have the biggest impact. She's the plot/conflict driver in a lot of ways. Plus I disagree with you on looks, she has a killer body.

—u/beyondthedoors

Hey dude, I'm right there with you. Quinn isn't all that attractive to me, either. Especially with that haircut where she looks like she got in a fight with a weedwhacker. It doesn't help that she's shitty to Maya, is shitty to the MC, is a drug dealer and pimp. I'm not into the "I can save her" thing. You can't.

WHAT IS THE DUMBEST THING YOU HAVE SEEN IN AN AVN?

by: u/Dessolos

Playing on my home for the first time. The MC doesn't know the difference between a tomato and a red bell pepper. He had to guess. It made me face palm never seen something that dumb in an AVN from an MC before. (Not enough to drop it I like it so far) So it got me wondering what is the dumbest thing you have seen in an AVN.

Edit : I understand the MC is having memory issues for some reason but that felt like a bit much for me.

For me, it was how you could only save one of the girls from the house fire in Acting Lessons. It's not like they were literally on fire, MC could've dragged them both to the window ffs.

—u/BradenP15

The MC from Three Rules of Life being such a dumb and pathetic doormat he is honestly one of the worst written MC I seen..

—u/gachagamer445

MC from BAD, he fucks everybody up, and then sparing with Sage comes and... she fucks him up easily, don't remember how many times i had tried until i managed to win)

—u/MpogAlex

Sandbox. These are supposed to be "visual novels" if you're asking for specific tropes, then I'd go with scenes where one or more characters start singing a song nobody knows about and the dev not even adding that song into the game. It's just awkward silence on my end while the characters are having a blast. LoF and other prominent AVNs do this at least once or twice.

—u/virtualdreamscape

I'm sure there are more and probably worse but what immediately comes to mind are some scenes from WVM. I was just starting to get into AVNs and this game has 2 of the dumbest and most cringey scenes I've ever seen, which repeat and increase in intensity.

First one was when MC laid down to sleep and girls kept piling up on him but when the adoptive mom did too on his chest I couldn't really take it and cringed so hard I had to take a pause and come back later. The first time it happened it was like 7 girls when I was in a relationship with only two of them. There's and even worse scene where it's like 20 girls doing it and I was still only in a relationship with the same two, but that's not the worst scene.

The second and definitely dumbest is when MC wakes up and there's some girl hugging him. But he doesn't want to wake them up, so what does he do? Naturally what anyone would do in this scenario: carry them around in his embrace around the house doing some stuff and talking to other girls like a freaking sleeping toddler. I swear that's the dumbest thing I've ever seen that comes to mind. The girls are all 18+ and iirc one of them was his coach that should probably be 30-40 something.

—u/giggling_raven

Nami asks Summer's Gone MC if he'll be able to get it up if he wants to have sex with Bella. His response is "if I think about dead children." I understand the context but holy shit that's the worst possible way to say that. MC has shitload cringey edge lord lines, but that one takes the cake.

—u/Taco6N13

Going to a tropical beach with palm trees and bikinis in Amsterdam in the fall. (College Kings)

—u/imjusthereforpron

Easy. WVM housing. Nothing else even comes close. He was like 7 houses in on day 5 or something when I quit.

—u/fyrefox45

WHAT ARE THE MOST ROMANTIC LOVE ROUTES YOU HAVE EVER PLAYED?

by: u/greedmh

Bella (Summers Gone) and im pretty sure everything is going to be romantic in Ocean's AVN's Most MBML LI's (Gwen, Aine, Emma...)

Athena (Bare Witness)

Luna (Eternum) is the cutest character ever and she is romantic even without lewds

Alex (Eternum) (probably because of the chemistry, kinda like a honey select version of Bella)

Sage (BaDIK) i liked her route honestly

—u/bazigounis

I'm going to say Mina in Pale Carnations. I like it because it's a "grounded", modern romance.

There are likely more "fantastical" romances, with MC meeting the heroine with a bundle of roses each time, and the heroine saying how MC is the light of their life and the only that gives her life meaning... but for me it's not huge gestures and declarations that may not happen anymore, it's the small stuff.

The Pale Carnations MC washing Mina's hair after they had sex... that's the most loving, caring scene I've seen. Pale Carnations is an adult game in many ways, and to me even the romance feels adult. The decadence of the setting/world-building is what makes such little tender moments feel that much more powerful.

Just like in our lifes, in it moments of romance are little bubbles of joy in an arduous daily routine.

—u/DiGreatDestroyer

It's obviously different for everyone but here are few that I think are the most romantic.

1. SG - Bella for me is #1 but I think Vic might be the most romantic path there.

2. Artemis - It got to be Kindra looking at how her path is going but looking at future of other girls I can also see her Zelda or Reina.

3. Unbroken - For me it's Els but every MG could be here tbh.

4. Eternum - Luna I guess? I think her path fits that the most. But I can see Annie or Alex also.

5. Chasing Sunsets - I mean.. Jaye > Mallory in this one.

6. Bare Witness - Athena for me.

7. Race of Life - It has to be MC's ex wife Allison right?

8. Being a DIK - Pick here is pretty easy - Quinn.

No MG pick like Jill/Maya.. or whatever because they are pretty damn boring imo.

—u/According_Brain_2071

I mean - I guess that depends on how you define romantic. To me romantic paths need a few components, like an actual deep emotional connection that is allowed to build - not all slow burns are romantic, but all romantic paths are more or less slow burn to me, because the emotion needs a chance to build. There needs to be a lot more to the connection and relationship than the lewd stuff and it needs to be given visibility. I mean, sure, lewd stuff can definitely be a great part of a romantic relationship, but it cannot be the only visible component to me as a player.

A few paths I find romantic are:

Bare Witness - Sadie - I think this one is quite self explanatory. I would like to say that the Zenda path also has a romantic feel to it, but it builds the "wrong way" - the lewd stuff takes center stage too early.

Be a Rock star - Jane - There are a few good paths here, I also think the Lisa path is pretty romantic, but for me Jane tops them all for romance

Leap of Faith - Cece - not my favorite path, but in terms of what plays as the most romantic one - this is my first choice.

Summer's Gone - Victoria (Unpopular opinion I know)

- but in terms of what feels like the most romantic route, this would be my first pick.

Artemis - Zelda, although Kindra is a very close second.

Chasing Sunsets - Has to be Jaye..

Eternum - Luna - although (and I cannot believe I am saying this) Alex is quite a romantic one..

The Unbroken - Take your pick - Personal preference says Vi - but arguments could be made for all the 5 MGS - Also Ser Pounce-a-lot.. sooo romantic :) And the head paths... lewd..

Race of Life - Allison - so far, I should say..

Hillside - ~Emma~ nah.. only trolling - Charlotte although, Lucy's path is quite romantic too.

Zero End - Rayne, I think, because of her dual nature is quite romantic in a non-conformist way Trouble at Home - I have a hard time choosing here but for now I will go with Emily/Stacy here, unless CKR makes Kayla an LI ;)

BaDIK - not my favorite game for MGS as I think the main paths are pretty boring, so my non-conformist answer would probably be Quinn. I find the way the walls that she has built to protect herself are slowly crumbling by the end of the Halloween party quite endearing - but again - non-conformist answer..

—u/VeterinarianOk6926

Okay this is gonna sound probably odd and really Bias so I'll give my #1 pick then my #2 pick.

#1 is Bella from Summer's Gone. I admit this might be a bias pick because I know there are more romantic LI out there. But almost all her cinematic animations scream romance with all the emotions. But what won me over and decided she is my #1 pick is the cinematic where she smells the MC's jacket ditches the race drives to the MC's house crying because of how much she misses the MC. From there on you can't help but feel the love and romance she has for the MC despite her being a cold bitchy mean girl most of the time. It's to the point I don't know who actually cares and loves the MC more Nami or Bella I honestly think they both would take a bullet for him.

#2 is really a coin toss between Allison from Race of Life or Charlotte from Hillside. But I think I have to go with Charlotte just barley as I think Allison needs more updates. Might be a bit of a cliché but I just love how as the MC you are helping her get over her trauma while just helping her in general. but along the way both of you catch feeling for one another but because of her trauma she is still scared to act on them but just reading how she actually feels I just love. They just kissed for the first time in the last update which I thought was romantic with her confession and everything.

While these 2 LI are my picks I have to say when it comes to romantic Story Jaye wins hands down but I just prefer the other LI paths for romance more.

—u/Dessolos

Jill from beingadik. Her path is also the most slowburn path in the entire game (where you get to have sex with every other main LI much earlier in their own respective path, yet Jill you can't until chapter 8, after you decided to date her exclusively.)

ABANDONED AVNS

by: u/Substantial-Dress446

Hi Guys,

I just wonder What make a developers abandon their games? Is it due to lack of financial support?

Because there are a lot of games that had a great potential

I think a lot of devs get overrun by "fans" wanting very specific things that just weren't part of the concept or story and they bow to the barrage of "needs". Let me help you. Fuck those people, make it your story. If it's a good one, you will gain support. If not, at least you did what you wanted to do and stayed true to the concept.

PS I'm not suggesting that we don't listen to constructive criticism.

—u/Mr.PocketRocket Game Developer

Its hard. Making a game is really hard. It takes a lot of work and discipline. Then if there is consistently little result after all that hard work, it becomes very difficult to keep going.

—u/rjrhodeswrites Game Developer

It's a lot of work for not a lot of gain. When players play your game for free and then complain about this or that it can really burn you out. Then you see that some sketchy developers have a huge following despite a lacklustre product or barely communicating with their playerbase and it can really be frustrating.

I'm walking this fine line of getting burnt out right now and I'm trying very hard to not cross it.

—u/Professor_Historian Game Developer

I have almost 3 years poured into mine, while I am nowhere near abandoning my project and still putting out releases regularly, I'd still like to share my main issue that disrupts my development the most: Back Pain. My actual job also needs me on the PC, so I'm like 24/7 365 when I'm working + developing.

Another factor is sometimes the toxicity of certain fanbases are really high, I'd say the worst are the followings of other games that would attack someone else's for no reason other than the latter getting attention.

Also, we got people with a really sick sense of entitlement, here's my best example: <https://itch.io/t/3268874/for-fucks-sakes-please-release-the-chapter-23>

EDIT: My recent releases were all under two months, the public version just got released a bit early one time so it made the waiting for the next, longer.

But even though he's the worst and by far the most toxic follower I have, I actually look forward to his rants; he amuses me. This guy, when I release, he shuts up, he's a simpleton, but there are those who want to force their way and try to influence my development to their preference, thinking their way is the only one that's right.

—u/tomatopureee Game Developer

In my case, as a creator, it was due to my health and multiple surgeries on my spine. Though I haven't completely abandoned it... I am back to work and doing mine as I am physically able to.

I think in other cases it can be a lot of things. Many seem to think it is a quick way to make money, but honestly it isn't. It requires a ton of work and honestly little payout for most. In some other cases, I think some just can't handle the response they sometimes get. In this work you kind of have to have some thick skin, or the ability to not allow some people to distract you away from the story that you want to tell.

I've seen a lot of creators try to appease fans, which isn't a bad thing, but if you do it too much you get pulled from the story you intended to create and the story becomes a mess or the creator loses interest because it is no longer the story they wanted to tell and it becomes too much of a grind because of it. And, still, there are many creators out there who are like me... struggling and dealing with health issues and doing this as a way to make supplemental income and their health keeps them from being as regular as many would like with their releases... or the work become just too much for them.

Be that as it may, it is always disappointing to get into a story and a set of characters only to find that, for whatever reason, the creator ups and quits.

—u/ASLPro_3D Game Developer

Death, getting arrested, financial issues, burnout, crazy life situations, getting a time consuming job, health issues, etc. lots of options.
