AVN terminology?

New to the scene, hoping someone could explain some AVN phrases/terminology, for example: NTR? Noir? Harem (in avn terms at least)? Tsundere? these are a few I can think of currently and google wasn't much help.

u/Greywarden194 Broken Bird Syndrome

You can search the visual novel database for all the terms under the tags and traits search bar. They have everything. Relying on people explaining sometimes give you different meanings.

u/Bikooo2

Netorare (NTR):

- Netorare (NTR) refers to a genre or narrative theme where a protagonist's romantic partner is seduced, stolen, or taken away by another character.
- NTR often involves emotional betrayal and can evoke intense emotions such as jealousy, heartbreak, and anguish.

Netorase:

- Netorase represents a variation of NTR that involves consensual involvement or approval from the protagonist's romantic partner.
- In Netorase scenarios, the partner may willingly engage in romantic or sexual activities with another character with the protagonist's knowledge and consent.

Netori:

- Netori revolves around a protagonist actively pursuing or seducing the romantic partner of another character.
- In Netori storylines, the protagonist becomes the one who steals or seduces someone else's partner.

u/CarbonScythe0 Sucker for wholesomeness

NTR is basically cheating but like you mention in another comment there are multiple types and this is not my preferred genre but I believe it is about who is aware of what's going in.

Partner1 finding partner2 cheating on them is a must if I understand it correctly. If they weren't aware of it previously and just found out and doesn't say anything. They usually don't say anything because they are spineless and gets off in an unhealthy way about it. If they know about it then they pretty much get off at what a slut partner2 is. That's one type of NTR.

If Partner2 knows that partner1 knows that they're cheating, that's another type of NTR. Partner2 usually gets off even harder knowing that partner1 is watching them cheat.

Outsider is the one partner2 is cheating with and if they know that partner1 is watching then they get off being superior to partner1, kind of like an Alpha male bragging about getting your woman. I would also say that rape is more common in this type of NTR.

I could be absolutely wrong on this but that is my understanding of NTR and it also makes sense that there is such a vocal crowd about hating this genre. Someone has to suffer for it to be NTR I think...

智に働けば角が立つ。とかくに人の世は住みにくい。山路を登りながら、こう考えた。智に働けば角が立つ。とかくに人の世は住みにくい。住みにくさが高じると、安い所へ引き意地を通せば窮屈だ。住みにくさが高じ

Bella's route (Being a DIK) is an example of Netori

This is how a tsundere character shows her affection lol (Bella x Nika, Summer's Gone)

Tsundere is Japanese anime thing as mentioned. Basically LI is in love with MC but refuses to admit and acknowledge this, to themselves and those around them and gets very abusive in their language about MC.

Noir is an old timey term that means old and gritty, usually black and white detective movies. I have never heard of this type of AVN so if you have any suggestions then I would love to hear it.

Harem, getting all or as many as possible of the LIs in one and the same run. It's usually considered harem whether or not the different LIs are aware of it or not.

Another one, if someone is called "landlord" that means mother and "roommate" means sibling, this is because Patreon don't like incest.

u/KnightOfArsford

Noir = genre that emerged in the 1940s and 50s and usually about crime mysteries/drama, often depicted in black and white (even in modern times).

Tsundere is one of the "dere types" (look that up and you'll see tons of articles about it), which originated from Japanese anime/manga. A tsundere is basically a character who starts off cold and hostile, but gradually warms up to the MC over time.

Harem is as exactly as it says. LIs? Gotta catch 'em all. (Oh, and LI stands for Love Interest, btw).

u/Dessolos I play for the story

When it comes to NTR I personally find it easier to call a lot of things NTR even if they aren't NTR as NTR because how loud people are about it. So hotwife, sharing, swinging, LI cheating, but really only the cheating could be considered NTR. But the NTR are so loud if someone gets with a LI off screen even if they aren't a LI or a LI is with another guy before you start their path people will scream NTR.

Tsundere = I'm not the best at remembering this one I know it's common in anime. I think it's when a LI actually like a LI but won't admit it and usually is cold or mean to the MC / the person they like.

Harem in terms of AVN's I think is 3 or more LI now it's debatable if it's considered a harem game or not to some people if they need to know about one another or you can just go around sleeping with everyone without consequence. For me I consider it a manwhore game if they are unaware.

Although it's not official, many considered Eternum a harem AVN.

Rank your Top 10 favorite AVNs

Hi Guys..

Let's play Rank your Top 10 favorite AVNs it's fun and it could also works as a recommendation to others who are looking for fun AVNs to play but struggling with what's good out there.

u/Sam_Collins2

My Top 10 are:

1. Being A DIK
2. Artemis
3. Leap of Faith
4. College Kings
5. Become A RockStar
6. Fresh Women
7. Monster College
8. Summer's Gone
9. Come Home
10. Summer Heat

What about you?

u/Whiskeyrich I play for the story

- 1: Chasing Sunsets
- 2: BadiK
- 3: Artemis
- 4: Leap of Faith
- 5: Bare Witness
- 6: Leaving DNA (would be higher if more completed)
- 7: City of Broken Dreamers.

- 8: Projekt Passion
- 9: Strangers on Paper
- 10: Still waiting on something to be good enough. All the rest are too juvenile or just fap fests.

u/Feelinglikepeeling

1. The Seven Realms - hooked me right the fuck in with a good ol vampire fantasy story with good characters, a strong story and the best renders and lewd scenes of any AVN I've read.
2. Desert Stalker - 2nd best for lewds, fun sandbox, great renders and animations, legit woke me up my Daddy Dom self, which has been appreciated.
3. BaD - this one kind of speaks for itself
4. Leap of Faith - the AVN I'll only read once. Once it got to THAT part, I didn't even give a shit about the LIs and the lewds anymore; I just cried and kept reading and hoped for something happy.
5. City of Broken Dreamers - I'm a sucker for a hard boiled cyberpunk technoir that also happens to have great characters, a strong story and quality rendering/animations
6. ARTEMIS - I'll get to the other one in a sec.

7. Eternum - This is the other one. Both are top tier as far as quality and good slow-burn storytelling. I prefer ARTEMIS because, frankly, the I'm not as big of a fan of Honey Select as many others are. I also prefer playing games as an adult rather than a barely post-pubescent boy.
8. Projekt Passion - MASS EFFECT as a porn. Do you NEED more of an explanation?
9. STWA: The Unbroken - This one is all story, characters and quality drama. Other than LoF, this is the one that's closest to feeling real.
10. Chasing Sunsets - It's the only fauxcest game that really works.

u/Exerant Ass Man

1. Being a DIK - I'm in love with Maya & Josy so... yeah.
2. Eternum - Great visuals, fantastic story, and awesome locations!
3. Leap of Faith - You already know why...
4. Once in a Lifetime - Took a little bit for me to get into it but after I did, it was all up from there.

5. Chasing Sunsets - One of the more grounded and realistic AVNs out there. Jaye and MC's bond is amazingly written.
6. Race of Life - Allison.
7. Strangers on Paper - I know, it only has one update so far but damn, I'm still hooked.
8. Projekt: Passion - Fun sci-fi shit, Ashe is the one.
9. Acting Lessons - First AVN ever. Came for the fap, stayed for the cry.
10. Out of Touch! - Insanely long with mass amounts of dopamine.

u/giggling_raven I play for the story

1. Eternum - My very first AVN and what got me into the genre and the overall quality is simply top tier. Story, characters, writing are all amazing.
2. Being a Dik - Didn't quite like it at the first but came back later and it's now one of my favorite AVNs. The plot isn't amazing, but the characters alone elevate this AVN to one of the best out there.
3. Summer's Gone - I don't there's a single AVN that can match Ocean's renders. The story is pretty good as well and the MC, even though edgy af, is quite cool.
4. Leap of Faith - Cece's story legit had me tearing up, which is the only time I've actually cried a bit playing an AVN.

5. Stray Incubus - The first 4 chapters are above average but everything from then on is just amazing. The ninja "academy" setting is pretty cool and the MC is one of the best imo.
6. Realm Invader - Still very early in development but the story got me totally hooked from the very beginning. I also absolutely love modern fantasy settings.
7. Fates Collide - Simple and generally lighthearted college story so far but the characters are so good. Raiko is one of the most adorable LIs I've ever seen.
8. Pale Carnations - Absolutely hated it at first and dropped it twice due to the heavy theme, but after the first week the story becomes really incredibly good. Hana and Mina are two of my favorite LIs from any game.
9. Lycoris Radiata - Could totally be an anime. Pretty good story and characters so far, but some girls make me angry sometimes, typical of anime girls tbh.
10. Astral Lust - Very good story and my favorite post-apocalyptic one, with a mix of eldritch horror. Maybe rip since the dev has been away for a long time, which is a shame.
11. Stormside - An extra one since Astral Lust is probably rip; Nice story with some really good characters and an atypical school-setting. The comedy is also right up my alley.

u/Rich_Illustrator7682

1. Leap of faith (forever in my #1 since it was my catalyst into my AVN journey)
2. Eternum
3. Summers Gone
4. Being a DIK (these 3 fluctuates in rank for me)
5. Artemis
6. Desert Stalker
7. Bare Witness
8. Chasing Sunsets
9. Fresh Women
10. STWA: Unbroken/Author

It's really hard for me to rank my all time favorites, but these games in particular make me want to play them again and again. Especially true for the first 5

u/Dessolos I play for the story

Not my actual top 10 but it's close everything is only off by 1 spot.

1. The Neverwhere Tales
2. Hillside
3. Nephilim
4. The Seven Realms
5. Race of Life
6. Summers Gone
7. The Deluca Family
8. Between Two Worlds
9. Eternum
10. Isabella - Chasing Shadows

I have a few honorable mentions as they are just as good for me personally and just barley dont make the list

- * Yesterday's Crossroads
- * Fates Collide
- * Elite Garden
- * Broken Promises
- * Being a Dik

u/sirobelec

1. Leaving DNA - the biggest breath of fresh air. Adult visual novel with actual adults behaving like adults, great characters, good story, good pacing, and incredible dialogue and character moments most of all.
2. Summer's gone - probably the highest quality visuals I've seen in an AVN, an unorthodox MC, good story and writing, and one of the best "raging bitch" LIs I've encountered.
3. Unraveling August - the AVN equivalent of "if System of a Down married Mastodon, then divorced, then hatefucked after the divorce and a child was born out of it". It can go from incredibly fucked up humorous to deeply introspective and profound to horror to gentle and back to hilarious in the span of 5 minutes, WITHOUT feeling jarring. As of this moment it has three episodes and you can breeze through them very quickly, but the potential is INCREDIBLY high.
4. The Unbroken - like Leaving DNA, adult characters behaving like adults, with overall great story, characters and visuals.
5. Being a DIK - I placed it here because of recency bias, played the shit out of it a month ago, and only after that I started playing all other AVNs on this list.

6. Pale Carnations - this one made me incredibly uncomfortable playing the first time around, but exceptional care has been given to the depth of the characters, including girls I initially wrote off as "just wholesome" or "just a bimbo", there's so much more to every one of them, and the game explores that depth to my utmost delight. Also the music is awesome.
7. Eternum - whereas before AVNs taught me that choices have consequences and being realistic, this AVN boldly takes off in the exact opposite direction, not being afraid at all to implement silliness, horror, wholesome moments, humor, and plain old fun, and doesn't care for being realistic at all as much as being exactly that - fun and engaging. Oh, and where other AVNs treat relationships more realistically, this is the first harem game I've played as it actively encourages you to go after all the girls. And while overall it's meant to be fun, I found that the characters aren't shallow either, great moments throughout.
8. Ripples - the game that made it impossible to listen to Pearl Jam the same way ever again. Interesting and engaging story, SO MANY great girls and interactions with them, and also bangers in the soundtrack.

9. Artemis - I'm a sucker for wholesome stuff and this game provides plenty of it.
 10. Corporate Culture - another AVN that feels adult, a journey of a confused lad back to being alive. As of writing this post, low amount of lewd content, but that doesn't make the game any less interesting, it's a slow burn introspective journey.
- Honorable mentions:

Leap of Faith. At this point we can probably classify it as a classic.
Our Red String - different art style, as it is drawn comics style rather than being 3D, with a GIGATON of branching, and very impactful choices AND consequences. Also differs from everything else on this list by having you play with two protagonists, male and female. And you can play them any way you like, you can make em fall in love and have eyes for no one else but each other, or you can make them act like filthy hoes and wreck the relationships of everyone else around them, or build relationships with other characters instead. Playing as the female protagonist depending on choices can be incredibly disturbing at times, and I'd recommend playing it anyway.

Mallory, Chasing Sunsets

Chasing Sunsets - I'll come out and just say it, Jaye.
 Bare Witness - I'll just recommend it, dialogues and characters are pretty damn good, if somewhat not exactly realistic, the story also seems good despite the fact it takes a back seat for most of the time, focusing instead on building relationships with the various girls.
 Also... probably the highest amount of lewds I've encountered in an AVN. :D

u/Shot-Usual4535 I get hard for Tsunderes

- Nr1 - Being a Dik - top for branching and characters
- Nr2 - Desert Stalker - great visuals in a Mad Max-esque universe with a legit Harem of gorgeous beauties
- Nr3 - Pale Carnations - THE Honey Select game top game, not for snowflakes, top notch LIs in a dark story
- Nr4 - STWA:Unbroken - a great story in a MMA setting with great depth and fantastic LIs
- Nr5 - Companion of Darkness - a great fantasy scifi game with above average renders but top notch story and very lovable LIs
- Nr6 - Lycoris Radiata - stellar good HS2 renders, great story great MC, great humour, veeery lovable LIs
- Nr7 - New Horizon - stellar HS2 renders, great scifi dystopian story, drool worthy LIs, only 2 chapters but already very very promising
- Nr8- Ripples - top of the top HS1 renders, great scifi stories, impossibly good LIs
- Nr9 - Summer's Gone - the story is very quirky, but the LIs will have your eyes pop off your skull, romancing them is just great
- Nr10 - Harem Hotel - probably the BEST sandbox game out there, together with Photo Hunt. Both have hours and hours of enjoyable content, lewds, and amazing LIs

 There are more games I'd recommend, you can find my Recommended List post on my profile.

u/FarUse2339

The ordering changes frequently depending on my mood and what I've played recently.

- 1. Our Red String
- 1. STWA: The Unbroken
- 1. Being a DIK
- 1. Chasing Sunsets
- 1. City of Broken Dreamers
- 1. Pale Carnations
- 1. Artemis
- 1. Race of Life
- 1. Ripples
- 1. Nephilim

Honorable mentions to The Seven Realms, Eternum, and Bare Witness for narrowly missing the Top 10 today...

Also worth mentioning that I'm super wary about the plot direction/pacing and character consistency of Summer's Gone and Where it all Began but they're still near the top of my "I really want to know what happens next" list and that counts for a whole lot. They're also the most visually stunning AVNs that I've tried, bar none.

COMPANIONS OF DARKNESS

- Great Hidden Gem

Good story with a lot of world building. It isn't the best hidden gem out there (Unraveling August) but it does feature a cameo from that one. The usual AVN stereotypes aren't followed much either. This may be a bad thing for some but I liked it.

As far as the premise - yes it is the usual 'guy gets new powers' plot. The lewd scenes aren't Eternum or BaDIK but it isn't the worst. Not sure I'm selling this well or hitting the right points but I definitely suggest checking it out.

LEAVING DNA

THE PLOT TITAN OF AVNS

u/Tak_Mycket
Contributor

MY INTEREST IN LEAVING DNA STARTED AROUND A MONTH AGO WHEN SOMEONE WHO HAS A VERY GOOD TASTE IN AVNS RECOMMENDED IT TO ME.

So when Impious Monk revealed the Steam Release was set to be released on the 7th of March I hopped onto Steam and wishlisted it. I had every intent of purchasing it on Steam on the 7th...

Alas fate had other ideas. I somehow found myself on his Patreon last night reading the 'About' section of his Patreon page. It was the best 'About' section I ever read.

It was so good that I couldn't stop myself... so I ditched the Steam plan and became a Patreon. Now 48 hours later, I sit here writing up this review... because let me tell you now, Leaving DNA is a masterpiece in story-telling.

Music

In my reviews, I would normally jump into the gushing and then slowly make my way towards the constructive criticism. Today I've decided to switch my order around... so here is some constructive criticism for Impious Monk.

When there is music, it slots seamlessly into the plot and always manages to enhance the experience. I want to specifically highlight the music used during the end of Chapter 2... and towards the end of Chapter 3 where the MC is figuring everything out. Those scenes I consider some of the best scenes in any AVN... and a major aspect of this is the brilliant use of music.

However, the music is not always on. For the less important scenes there is none... and I believe it would be much better if you included music for these "lesser" (I hesitate to use that word to describe those scenes but it's the best I could conjure) scenes. Something I will say is part of what engaged me in LDNA was the contrast between the silent scenes and the scenes with music. When the music started it built anticipation that something important was about to happen - and I loved that aspect of it.

So if I were in your (Impious Monk's) shoes, then I would add a few quiet ambient tracks into the background for these lesser scenes. I favour this solution, because it'll keep the contrast between the 'lesser' scenes and the more important scenes, but at the same time it still provides something for the audience to listen to. I understand very well that music is hard to come by as an AVN dev, so there are difficulties, but I would implore you to test my suggestion out.

While having said all this... you're the dev of LDNA... and it's extremely clear that you do a fucking brilliant job at it. So do what you think is best.

Anyway - moving on!

Renders

They're not Ocean standard... but they're pretty darn good. They do a wonderful job of conveying to the audience what they're supposed to know. I'm a massive fan of "show don't tell" and LDNA is one of the few AVNs which manage to achieve this.

Writing

Once again, they aren't at the top of the industry... however the writing is still of extremely high quality. Impious Monk (IM) doesn't overwrite... and he does an extremely good job at letting the renders do a lot of the storytelling which is an extremely underrated skill in itself. I also enjoy how IM is extremely conservative when it comes to utilising character's thoughts. LDNA does a wonderful job at conveying emotions through either dialogue or renders which enhance the conversations and make them feel more realistic.

Another aspect I want to point out is the legal side of LDNA. Since the MC is a District Attorney, you would expect him to be engaging in legal cases and such. I am no legal expert myself, and my limited understanding of the US Court System mainly comes from watching the first season of Suits. However, I found the dialogue in the court room was natural... and sounded as if it were a conversation fit for the court room.

Love Interests

LDNA features 4 LIs... all of whom seem to be extremely appealing in all aspects (personality, character development and appearance wise). I'm not going to delve deeper into each of them... but what I will say is they all felt like adults as they each had their own backstory, fears, vulnerabilities and aspirations. My favourite as of now is Emmeline, but the other 3 are right behind her, and honestly I wouldn't be surprised if I had 4 different playthroughs for LDNA by the time it's completed (and that comes from someone who isn't a massive fan of multiple playthroughs).

Lewd Content

It is a question in the back of everyone's minds when discussing AVNs. As of now, there is a "lack" of lewd content (there is lewd content, but only a small amount). I surrounded 'lack' with quotation marks as lack normally has a negative connotations. I find the pacing of the LIs to be rather great at the moment and if lewd content was thrown in there then LDNA wouldn't be as great.

One aspect LDNA doesn't have is Side Girls, which are normally characters which provide early lewd content. Whether or not that is an issue depends on your preferences... but honestly when an AVN has a plot as great as LDNA then the amount of lewd content rarely matters.

Main Character

Compelling and brilliant. He's not perfect in the sense he's the perfect human. Instead, he's a perfect character. He has lots of talents... he's handsome, intelligent and kind... yet he has some serious flaws and throughout the journey we start seeing him improve himself. He's a compelling MC that you can route for and does a brilliant job at playing the lead role.

Plot

Now that's all out of the way... time for the gushing. The title of the post states that LDNA is the plot titan of AVNs - or in other words LDNA has the best plot ever seen in an AVN. The whole entire time LDNA had me thoroughly engaged and I couldn't seem to put it down. Even the side-plot, such as Jamie's case had me intrigued and there was never a dull moment in LDNA.

And the cliffhangers... don't get me started on the cliffhangers. I have my tinfoil hat on at the moment, and there's a whole bunch of LDNA theories currently sloshing around in my brain... Alas this is a review, and not a theory discussion, so I'm bound to remain spoiler free. The plot was constantly keeping me on my toes... and the quality of the foreshadowing is astonishing. It's perfect in the sense that it gives you little hints as you progress so plot twists do not come out of the blue, yet it's not super obvious foreshadowing that ruins the element of surprise.

If you enjoy plot-driven AVNs then I'd definitely play LDNA... as it has the best plot in any AVN.

Content Length

I would estimate it took me around 6-7 hours of playtime to get through LDNA in total. I did binge it so I did lose track of time, so you'll have to pardon me if I completely butchered my estimate.

Pacing

Pacing is a subsection of plot - but I want to highlight this point which is why it gets it's own section.

Many AVNs struggle with pacing. More commonly than not, AVNs with a plot struggle to advance both the plot and the character development at decent rates. In the vast majority of cases either the plot or the character development plays second fiddle to the other and develops at an extremely slow pace, or even worse, happens in a heartbeat. I am proud to announce LDNA is not part of that majority.

The pacing of the plot and the character development works in tandem brilliantly and both aspects advance along nicely as LDNA progresses.

Conclusion

If you don't play AVNs for the sole reason of fapping then definitely play LDNA. It's plot is next level while the LIs, renders, music and writing is of all high quality.
