Description :

PDF-75d16 | Keeping the Nation's House unsettles the assumption that home economics training lies far from the seats of power by revealing how elite Chinese women helped to build modern China one family at a time. Trained between the 1920s and the early 1950s, home economists did not believe that a clear line separated the private (nei) from the public (wai). They believed that the home economics courses ta... Keeping the Nation's House: Domestic Management and the Making of Modern China (Contemporary Chinese Studies Series)
