

Privacy Policy

Effective Date: 26/05/2018

This Policy defines the scope of privacy and degree of confidentiality protecting the information provided by users during registration and normal use of ClinicManager Application, ClinicManager' services, programs and facilities. At any time, users can, at their discretion, allow or forbid collection and use of their personal information.

This Policy applies to Application owned and operated by Itzik Nehemya. By using the Application, user provides his/her consent that Itzik Nehemya has the authority to collect, use and disclose the user's personal information according to the rules of this Policy.

Itzik Nehemya proclaims and accepts its responsibility to protect the user's personal information. This document contains the rules upon which such information is collected and used, and also the reasons for disclosure of such information. These rules apply to any personal information collected by Itzik Nehemya.

1. COLLECTION OF INFORMATION

During work with the Application, technical non-personal information about the user such as the user's IP address, address of another Application the user came to the Application from, time of the visit, and browser type and language version, may be collected automatically. We may also collect and analyze navigational information, namely the address and path of the user through the Application, actions performed at the Application, jumps to and from inner links, etc. Personal information of the User is collected only upon prior permission from the User to collect and use certain information within these rules. Giving such permission, the User supplies such information voluntarily.

"Personal information" includes:

- Information supplied by the user during registration at the Application, including the login, full name, business name, phone number and e-mail.
- Registered users also have an option to provide additional personal information such as address and phone number within their profiles. Each user can control what information is displayed publicly at "Edit profile" page.

ClinicManager Application never requires users to provide genetic data, biometric data, information revealing racial or ethnic origin of users, their political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, trade-union membership, and data concerning their health or sex life or sexual orientation.

Each user has the right to refuse the submission of personal information at any time. However, in this case, some functions and services offered at the Application may be degraded and/or made unavailable, in part or in its entirety.

2. USE OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

Collection and use of the user's personal information is performed by ClinicManager Application for the following purposes:

- Creation, management and maintenance of an account;
- Processing of the User's inquiries and operations at the Application;
