

A Sense of Being

I'm dangling from a peach tree limb,
I can find no backbone—background—
backboard from which to spring.

Culture is for chickens.

I grow no roots, bringing nothing and leaving only the nothing-space of footprints behind. I look back to see

History is a love affair with whiskey—brief—evaporated.

This []
is my heritage.

First published in Susurrus, 2024