Leaving no stone unturned

I'm a sonic explorer and leave no stone unturned. I'm always looking for new sounds and sonic palettes to explore. I strive to find the most creative sounds that will impact my audience while still trying to express myself in a way that is accessible. I love music to dance to, sing to, meditate to, and music that opens up new doors and ideas. As my musical journey continues, I'm looking to share stories of inspiration and encouragement in a way that is creative and timeless. I'm grateful that my musical journey has led me back into the world of film and video and offers me the chance to indulge my love of performance art.
