

The Art of Death

by Ron Hardy | Oct 28, 2020 | Uncategorized

Death can be classified as the ultimate state of meditation. The body goes into a dehydrated petrified state as it reverts back into from which it came.

The electrical currents and frequencies that fuel one's life are then scattered back into the universe.

This scattered energy becomes one with its source and is manifested again within the context of its existence. Thus, nothing truly ever dies it multiplies as it relates to life.

Ron Hardy

Published by Utopia West Creations 2020