

Rise

By: Tiffany Pennywell

We were born into a world

Where atrocities helped to shape

Where we are going

The stones were set upon our shoulders

To hinder our climb

And reaching out for help

Was made to seem the highest form of treason

What do we do when we are at our lowest

Where do we look when the door is sealed tight

Inside

Inside, we are all born with a resilient core

One that glows brightest

When we think we can take no more

So, when you are down

And the wind stirs your ashes

Setting to flame your entire being

And rise

Rise like the phoenix you are

For we are all reborn to fly again

To claim our spark

To claim our life

To fly above all that is set in our path

Our souls are reborn to be stronger

To propel us towards new beginnings

New growth

And new prosperity

We are born to rise
