

Closure

You do not live here anymore

You left-sided lover.

I left you one street over

When I left for coffee

Beneath a livid sky.

More dull than anything,

The sound of your ghost steps,

The memory of your lazy warmth

The kiss of one thousand what-ifs

And then finally.

Most importantly.

The wake of your absence when I returned.