Course Description

How do the billion people in slums in cities around the world live and work? What is the relationship of the slum to the city, and of slum dwellers to urban life and economy in cities around the world? In this course we will focus on the cultural, social, economic, and political processes that shape this particular urban housing form. The course will also investigate the effects of local and global policies and trends on the experiences of those living in slums and squatter settlements in cities around the world.

Course discussions will focus on both classic and contemporary scholarship, reports, and documentaries that investigate slums and squatter settlements from architectural, policy, human rights, and economic perspectives. The course will cover general theories on low-income housing, and practical approaches towards the management of slums and squatter settlements in cities around the world.

Learning Objectives

This course offers:

1. a comprehensive understanding of slums as an important global housing type
2. an exploration of important economic and social themes related to urban poverty and socio-spatial inequity
3. critical analyses of regional and global politics and economies from the perspective of slums and squatter settlements

Prerequisite(s)

Required Readings

All Required readings will be available on Blackboard under “Documents.”

Assignments

There are four main components of grading and evaluation for this course:

1. Short exercises (35 % of total grade)

You are required to complete two short research exercises. You will be evaluated on content and presentation.

a. Exercise 1: (10%)

Give a 5-minute presentation (three PowerPoint slides) on an example of urban informality in any European or North American city.

b. Exercise 2: (15%)

Give a 5-minute presentation (three PowerPoint slides) on an assigned public housing program in the United States, Vienna, and Singapore. Highlight the important features and eligibility requirements of the assigned program.

c. Exercise 3: (10%)

Give a 5-minute case-study presentation (three PowerPoint slides) on an approach towards improving the living and working conditions of residents in an existing slum or squatter settlement.

2. Participation in class discussion (15% of total grade)

- a. This is a discussion-based seminar. Your verbal participation in each class session will be evaluated for relevance and content.
- b. To prepare for participation in class discussions, it is essential that you come to the class having done the assigned readings. You must do so by engaging with the weekly text, that is, by identifying the section/s of the assigned reading that relates directly to the main argument of the scholar as well as look for evidence used to support scholarly claims. You should also take note of key terms and concepts discussed in readings or lectures. Finally its important that you find connections between different readings as well as develop your own questions on the claims made by scholars whose work you will be encountering in this course.

3. Midterm Exam (20% of total grade)

4. Final Paper (30% of total grade)

- a. After exploring informal housing within cities using various perspectives in this course, how would you respond to the question, "What is a Slum?" Your response should be in the form of a 1500 word essay
- b. Submit your paper, saved as yourlastname.doc, as an email attachment to _____ by the due date and time

Grading Breakdown
