

Myokei Caine-Barrett Shonin: May the Sound of the Odaimoku Permeate the Whole World

Myokei Caine-Barrett Shonin is the Bishop of the Nichiren Shu Order of North America and resident priest of Myoken-ji Temple in Houston, TX. She is engaged in racial healing and managing conflict since the early 1990s. She has been a student of Buddhism for over 50 years. She has worked extensively in Prisons and with interfaith communities and is involved with Texas for Heroes for healing warrior hearts. Explore the Heart of the Lotus Sutra through chanting and guided meditation and discover the meaning of the Odaimoku: An incrementally guided teaching in learning the chant and hand gestures. Participate in the Chanting ritual and experience the Odaimoku.

TOP EMBODIMENT TIP: Chanting can be perceived as a ritual, as a mediation that is embodiment.

The Odaimaku will open you up so your Buddha nature is shown and starts to grow and develop and become a foundation for your life.

- Practices include small periods of silent meditation in preparation for active chanting and lots of noise through drumming and ringing of bells.
- Through the practice of chanting, you're able to develop compassion, wisdom and courage and it is spoken in the teachings that your life will straighten out.
- Chanting can be perceived as a ritual, as a mediation that is embodiment.

Chanting:

- Odaimoku means Sacred title of the Lotus sutra.
- Is spoken in the Shindoku language which is the Japanese pronunciation of the Ancient Chinese.
- Neo ho (wonderful Darma) Engay (lotus flower) Cho (sutra).
- We chant it by adding "namu" (reverence).
- Meaning "I revere or devote myself to the wonderful dharma of the lotus sutra".
- This chant is an act of cleansing your life like polishing a mirror.
- Aids in digestion and works with metabolism whereby warmth is created.

Adding Hand Gestures:

- Action is thought to integrate both hemispheres of the brain.
- It has a settling effect and calms down anxiety. May also be activating as it takes coordination.
- The founder believed that this chant represented chanting the whole sutra in one line.

Philip Shepherd, TEPP The Embodied Present Process

Philip Shepherd is the author of two books, Radical Wholeness and New Self, New World, and is also the originator of The Embodied Present Process (TEPP), which is taught online and in workshops around the world.

When you belong to a culture that lives in its head, you absorb its limiting assumptions at a tender age – assumptions about what it means to be human, what the body is, and what intelligence is, for starters.

The Embodied Present Process is a unique, gentle, far-reaching series of practices that illuminate those hidden limitations within the body, undo their hold, and newly sensitize you to the present. Discover how an embodied meditation can open you to a whole-body experience of the present in just a few minutes. This transformative practice is one of more than a hundred practices developed by Philip Shepherd, and offers an inner journey you can navigate again for yourself at any time.
