

End of Year Corporate Gifts

As the festive season draws near, businesses are starting to think about how they can show appreciation to their clients, partners and employees. While traditional gifts like pens and calendars have their place, nothing makes an impression quite like a unique, personalised gift. One standout choice? Custom printed tea towels they are kept, displayed, used daily plus they're easy to post or pack. Not only that they long lasting eco-friendly promotional item that keeps on promoting.

Printing times: just a friendly reminder that from October - November our printing times push out to 3 weeks as we're in our peak period.

Christmas closure: we will stop taking print jobs from 30th November with our printing opening back up early January.

There's still time for your end of year fundraiser

There's still time to get started on your end of year fundraiser. Our free coordinator's kit simplifies the process, providing all the necessary tools to help make your fundraiser a success. Click here to request your coordinator's kit or download our guide to start right away. With school holidays underway in some states and on the way in others we can even post your kit to a home address, so you can have everything ready to start drawing in the first few weeks of Term 4.

Staff Picks

Theodore State School celebrated 100 years this year and we think their commemorative tea towel featuring the whole school looks great. Tea towels make sure a great memento that will last for years to come.

100 fans were lucky enough to score tickets to a one-off Keith Urban gig at The Bob Hawke Beer & Leisure Centre on 3rd September. We had the pleasure of printing some amazing tea towel mech for the gig.

Pymble Ladies College boarders featuring all their home towns looks fantastic and such a great way to celebrate everyone.

As we head into our peak design time we're loving seeing all the new artworks and everyone's creative abilities.
