

Hightower

Design duo Busk + Hertzog create intentional designs that adapt to a user's natural tendency to shift positions.

The wide, curved back of the Stella offers support from any angle, while also giving the user the option of armrests. The singular connection point between the seat and back gives the illusion of an almost floating back that demands a closer look. Playful and unique, the powder coated base rounds out a surprising piece that will spark endless creativity and conversation in any office or hospitality environment.
