Conference on myths and parts of science fiction

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Varanasi: A two-day conference of 17th Indian Science Fiction, organised by Malaviya Centre for Innovation, Incubation & Entrepreneurship (MCIIE), in association with Indian Association for Science Fiction Studies, Bangalore, Karnataka and Indian Science Fiction Writers Association, Faizabad, will be held at Indian Institute of Technology BHU on December 15 and 16.

Talking to reporters on Friday, convener Dr Arvind

Mishra said that the theme of the conference is based on artificial intelligence, nano technology, robotics, space exploration, time machine, fantasy, myth, utopia, history, criticism, Indian science fiction in vernacular languages, impact of western SF on Indian SF writing, responses of Indian SF on world science fiction, science fiction visual media and others.

About 100 delegates from various parts of the country and abroad would take part in the conference.
