African Countries Often
Overlooked by Tourists

Kata Kata is an authentic African cartoon magazine with both online and printed versions. Humorously, Kata Kata tries to discuss and sensitize typical African / global socio-political issues using cartoons. At the same time, it equally offers a maxim that life is perhaps not all about seriousness; one needs some laughs and relaxation to face serious challenges in life. The duality of Kata Kata is such that it, on the one hand, discusses serious issues and at the same time, it offers therapy for the problems through laughter.

In an educational, informative and yet humorous way, Kata Kata creates awareness of social problems through the dissemination of information and finds solutions to them. This important information can be sent across in many major languages (English, French, Spanish, Portuguese) as well as / or different African languages, to reach the grass-root audiences.

The quarterly printed edition of Kata Kata is widely available in the Netherlands and some European countries. Equally, the magazine can be read or borrowed from different libraries globally, including the prestigious Stanford University Library, USA, Federal Library Den Haag, (the Netherlands), University of Leiden Library -African Studies (Netherlands), University of Iowa (Main Library), USA, Southern Africa Library, Basel, Switzerland etc.

Likewise, the digital version of Kata Kata can also be read online or subscribed to via Kata Kata website or Magzter, the world's largest digital newsstand with more than 20 million readers.

Publisher's note: That Troublesome Tuberculosis

The arrival of the deadly Coronavirus has created a different attitude towards other global sicknesses. It has made us somehow forget other global sicknesses, that have been killing people in million globally. Amongst the deadly bacteria, tuberculosis, which is caused by strains of mycobacteria, usually Mycobacterium tuberculosis, often attacks the lungs and sometimes affects other parts of the body as well.

No group of people should be very more concerned about tuberculosis than developing countries, because presently, the bacteria manifests itself mainly in poor countries. The transmission of tuberculosis occurs through the air, usually when the infected person coughs, sneezes, or via their saliva through the air. That makes the spread of tuberculosis easy and difficult to control, as such, equally deadly.

Yes, deadly because tuberculosis, which kills more than 1.5 million people globally, can claim the lives of half of its infected persons. A good reason why developing countries need to worry.

But tuberculosis equally causes other social havocs. Misconceptions about the bacteria come with a huge price. While some label tuberculosis a bad omen, and associate its patients with witchcraft, other patients have experienced complete abandonment and even rejection from their families and friends. The result of the social isolation leads to loneliness, depression or even suicide. But that is not all. The social stigma of being a tuberculosis patient often remains with the patient even after being cured. These social problems are very common in Kata Kata Village.

Due to this stigma and negative attitude towards tuberculosis patient, some infected individuals fear to reveal their health status; as such, the patients might not receive the needed medical treatment. This can be dangerous both to the infected person and others.

To create public awareness of the danger tuberculosis poses to the world, the World Health Organization has set out March 24th each year as World TB Day....

Hold on, I've just received a phone call from Kata Kata Village.....

AGAMA: Agama here. There is a serious commotion here....

OGO: What's going on? Did the Pope want to marry your daughter?

AGAMA: Please be serious. The WHO Police team has just arrested CHIEF...

OGO: Arrested CHIEF?

AGAMA: Do I speak Arabic or Chinese? Yes, they did. According to the police, Kata kata Village has stigmatized former tuberculosis patients, even long after their cure. They insisted that, as the leader of the village, CHIEF should be held responsible for the unacceptable act. Please hurry, we need your intervention...

Dear readers, allow me to rush to Kata Kata Village now. Isn't this incident a good reason for the village to start working together with the WHO to create awareness of tuberculosis and its related problems? Join the team if you believe in this campaign.

Yours in Kata Kata,
Ogo Uba Bukoh
