Kata Kata is an authentic African cartoon magazine with both online and printed versions. Humorously, Kata Kata tries to discuss and sensitize typical African / global socio-political issues using cartoons. At the same time, it equally offers a maxim that life is perhaps not all about seriousness; one needs some laughs and relaxation to face serious challenges in life. The duality of Kata Kata is such that it, on the one hand, discusses serious issues and at the same time, it offers therapy for the problems through laughter.

In an educational, informative and yet humorous way, Kata Kata creates awareness of social problems through the dissemination of information and finds solutions to them. This important information can be sent across in many major languages (English, French, Spanish, Portuguese) as well as / or different African languages, to reach the grass-root audiences.

The quarterly printed edition of Kata Kata is widely available in the Netherlands and some European countries. Equally, the magazine can be read or borrowed from different libraries globally, including the prestigious Stanford University Library, USA, Federal Library Den Haag, (the Netherlands), University of Leiden Library -African Studies (Netherlands), University of Iowa (Main Library), USA, Southern Africa Library, Basel, Switzerland etc.

Likewise, the digital version of Kata Kata can also be read online or subscribed to via Kata Kata website or Magzter, the world's largest digital newsstand with more than 20 million readers.

Publisher's note:

Combating The Combatant Pollution

Presently, COVID-19 or Coronavirus pandemic has become the most dominant news discourse. The pugnacious virus has drastically changed the world, medically, financially, socially, and otherwise. But coronavirus is hardly the only health challenge facing the world today. Pollution has become one of the most deadly yet less reported silent killers today.

Pollution or environmental pollution refers to when an amount of any form of substance or energy is put into the environment at a rate faster than it can be dispersed, diluted, decomposed, recycled, or stored in some harmless form.
It is high time we knew we are dying silently from pollution.
According to the World Health Organization, about 4.6 million people die yearly from air-related pollution.

Interestingly, more lives are lost globally due to air pollution than automobile accidents. Every year, pollution causes more than 100 million deaths globally. That scaring figure is comparable to the demise due to global diseases such as HIV and malaria.

Not even animals and birds are spared from the cold hands of environmental hazards. According to the UNO, yearly, more than 1 million seabirds and 100,000 sea mammals die because of pollution. As much as the figure is intimidating, hardly are our governments doing enough to reduce the unnecessary deaths.

Nor are our aquatic organisms free from pollution-related ends.
Because many lakes are too polluted, fishing, marine life, or swimming has become seriously affected.

Our ocean and water have become an ideal spot where cargo ships and cruise liners dump billion pounds of garbage.
All these unhealthy activities cause serious environmental hazards to both humans and sea animals. Yearly, as much as 1.2 trillion gallons of industrial waste, stormwater, and untreated sewage are dumped into the water. But that is not all.

Since air pollution accounts for the most deaths, people exposed to air pollution have a 20% higher risk of dying of lung cancer than people who live in less polluted areas, according to the UNO. Worse still, although children form only 10% of the world's population, 40% of them die globally due to pollution.
As many as more than 3 million children under age five die yearly due to environmental reasons. Furthermore, 7.8 million people could die prematurely due to being directly or indirectly exposed to emissions.

Sadly, looking at the World Health Organisation figures, which show that over 90% of people live in an unsuitable environment, based on the WHO air quality guidelines, it is time to take immediate actions to tackle the global environmental challenges.

Kata Kata village is leaving no stone unturned. It has just formed the Kata-kata Village Pollution Police (KKVPP) to achieve its goals. Wouldn't you like to join the campaign? Thanks for your positive response. Let's get going.

Yours in Kata Kata,
