

First job. What to remember?

The first job is always a huge stress for any person, but if you follow some simple rules, you can reduce this stress to a minimum and quickly get involved in all the details. About any rules in question?

First, you need to understand that you are at work and every minute of your time you i need help writing a personal essay should be used to maximum benefit, you need to study everything, make useful contacts, to get the necessary experience. Secondly, now you have to decide what you want to achieve in their professional sphere, to set a clear goal. Think, who do you see yourself in 5, 10, 15 years.

Next you need to understand that no one owes you nothing and nobody will run after you and put you in the head knowledge of how it was in high school and at University. If you want to work, you want to achieve some success, to advance your career, then you and only you have to work hard, to learn, to ask questions, to take interesting and difficult quests, expand your responsibilities, and to become simply irreplaceable person in the company, a true professional in his field.

On one place you don't hold a stranglehold, so if something goes wrong, went wrong relationships with colleagues in the team a kind of unhealthy atmosphere, the boss is a tyrant and so on and so forth, you go looking for another job, not sit idly by, and do not waste your nerves in vain. But in any case not grasping the iron, first of all think carefully about, try to find some alternative solutions and if nothing helps, the situation does not change, then write a letter of resignation.

Of course, if you get into a good team, the first time you all will help, to support, to enter into your position, close your eyes on some of your errors and mistakes, but in no case do not try to get used to it. Work on yourself, get involved in the work as soon as possible, act independently, take responsibility for their decisions. Do not relax!

Choose a mentor. In every team there are veteran, highly trained specialists who know all the details. Communicate more with these people, go together on lunch breaks, ask them to share with you the experience, equal to these people and reach to their level.

Remember that you have damn little time. In fact, how much time is left on this Earth? Not so much, if you think about it, so discipline yourself to use every minute as productively as possible. For example, if you, as a student, decided to earn money in your spare time a waiter or a courier is not a bad solution, but it would be better if you got a job as Intern in any firm in which you would like to work afterwards. If you don't pay a lot of money or even not pay at all, but after graduation you will always have something to write about, but if you still yourself and zarekomendujete well, then perhaps you immediately and will offer a place staff member. Think, meditate, try to work in the future. If you are offered a job in a large company, but as a young professional does not promise a big payday, think about that, but you will have room to grow, you will not run into the "ceiling" in a couple of years of his career. And on the other hand, if you are offered a salary to order more, but hopeless in a small organization, think, and whether, the one you want or all ready to set ourselves a higher goal? In General, only you can decide and you make your own choices.

Get ready for what you will be very hard the first time, to the simplest and most routine tasks you will have to go to time a lot more than your colleagues with experience. But this does not mean that you are stupid and anything are not capable, it only means that you still don't have enough experience, but over time, it to you all to come so that idealizes others and don't lose faith in yourself.

As they say: "fools learn from their mistakes, and smart for strangers". Take this proverb as a rule, do not consider yourself smarter than others, if someone something does not work, then you most likely won't work. Learn from the experience of older wise successful people draw conclusions for themselves and learn from their mistakes.

If suddenly at some moment you realized that made a mistake once with the choice of profession (and it happens quite often), do not sit on a place, find yourself, your calling, do what you really like. You are not a tree you don't grow roots in one place, if you want to leave, then leave. Life is too short to waste your time on trivia.
