Brandon A. Fuqua advises clients in connection with government investigations, enforcement proceedings, and litigation. These investigations and enforcement proceedings involving a range of matters relating to civil and criminal violations before the Department of Justice, the Food & Drug Administration, and the Securities & Exchange Commission among others. Brandon also litigates matters in U.S. state and federal trial courts for a variety of commercial disputes.

Prior to joining Stanton LLP, Brandon practiced in the Dallas office of Sidley Austin LLP. Brandon received his undergraduate degree in Public Policy Studies from Duke University and serves on the Alumni Admissions Advisory Committee. After graduating from the Dedman School of Law at Southern Methodist University where he served as Managing Editor of the SMU Law Review, Brandon clerked for the Honorable Douglas S. Lang of the Texas Fifth Court of Appeals.

Brandon and his wife Abby, Vice President of Business Development at Venturity Financial Partners, are active in the community, supporting political and philanthropic causes. They enjoy taking walks with their son Mayer, watching documentaries, and going to the symphony.
