

Contents

Thinking Machines by Radu Jude	ix
Prefatory Note	xi
Introduction: The Filmmaker's Dialogue	xiii

Part One: Ideas of Cinema

1. Ways of Invention	1
2. Preserving the Core	7
3. Metaphors, Fields, Semantic Maps, and Horizons of Reference	15
4. What is Cinema? The Most Essential Things	19
5. Origin Tales	29
6. The Famous "Invisible Style" Defence	37
7. Invisible Imaginary Ubiquitous Winged Witness	45
8. Chance and Destiny	53
9. A Genealogy of Inspiration	61
10. Magical, Secret Ingredient	69
11. Nailing Down the Parameters of Cinécriture	75
12. Cool, Clear Water	83
13. The Power of Negation	91

Interlude: Statements of Intention

14. Chantal Akerman: Almayer's Folly	99
15. Philippe Grandrieux: Sombre	105
16. Jean-Luc Godard: Vivre sa vie	111
17. John Hillcoat: The Proposition	115
18. Jacques Rivette: Daughters of Fire	123

Part Two: Ideas About Cinema

19. Pure and Impure Vocation	133
20. Do It and Show It, That's All	141
21. Plunging Down into the Unreally Real	149
22. Stepping Off a Fast Train	157
23. Time Imprinted	165
24. Mythical, Infantile Substratum	173
25. Asynchronised Strike	181
26. In Suspense	187
27. Past the Photographic	195
28. Featureless White Screen	201
29. The Proper Spectator	211
30. Denuded Music, Moving Positions	217
31. Occult Alternative	223
32. Short Preface to All Criticism	233
33. A Dream is a Thought Expressed in Images	245

Index	251
-------	-----