Induction Program for the Batch of 2019-22 at Vivekananda School of English Studies

The inaugural induction program for the 2019-22 batch of English Honours at Vivekananda School of English Studies (VSES) proved to be a memorable and significant event for both the students and faculty members. The occasion offered a unique opportunity for the outgoing batch to extend a warm welcome to the incoming students, fostering a sense of unity, camaraderie, and academic continuity.

Commencement and Rituals

The induction commenced at 1:00 p.m. with a traditional lamp lighting ceremony conducted by esteemed faculty members, signifying the symbolic commencement of the event. The atmosphere was further enriched with a captivating Bharatnatyam performance by a student, which captivated the audience and was met with enthusiastic applause. The invocation of Goddess Saraswati through the melodious rendition of the Saraswati Vandana invoked an aura of reverence and spiritual resonance, elevating the ambience of the gathering.

* Dean's Address*

Dr. Salonee Priya, the Dean of VSES, took the stage at 1:20 p.m. and extended her warm and welcoming words to the new batch. Her address not only set the tone for the induction program but also underscored the institution's commitment to fostering holistic academic growth and personal development among its students.

Institutional Overview and Achievements

A comprehensive PowerPoint presentation followed, detailing the institution's code of conduct, examination system, library facilities, and significant accomplishments over the preceding year. This presentation provided the new students with valuable insights into the academic environment they were entering, as well as the opportunities and resources available to them. The presentation also celebrated the achievements of the faculty members and the vibrant events hosted by VSES, evoking nostalgia among the attendees.

Faculty Introduction and Student Experiences

The faculty members, integral pillars of the academic community, introduced themselves to the incoming batch, extending a warm welcome and demonstrating the institution's commitment to a supportive and nurturing academic environment. Several students then took the stage to share their self-composed poems, each offering a unique perspective on their literary aspirations and journey. This platform provided an opportunity for creative expression and showcased the diverse talents within the student body.

"Literographia": A Journey through Literary History

One of the highlights of the program was the mesmerizing enactment titled "Literographia." This performance ingeniously portrayed the evolution of English Literature by bringing to life the stalwarts and milestones of literary history. Accompanied by a captivating slide show, this portrayal showcased the depth of knowledge possessed by the students and their ability to translate it into a captivating performance. The act not only entertained but also educated the audience about the rich tapestry of English literary heritage.

Program Conclusion and Acknowledgment

Dr. Hardeep concluded the program with a heartfelt vote of thanks, expressing gratitude to all involved in making the induction program a success. The audience, comprising both faculty members and students, lauded the collective efforts that had culminated in a well-organized and enlightening event. The induction program served as an apt initiation into the academic journey that lay ahead for the incoming batch, fostering a sense of belonging, pride, and aspiration within the VSES community.

In conclusion, the inaugural induction program of VSES for the batch of 2019-22 left an indelible mark, setting a precedent for welcoming new students with enthusiasm, knowledge, and a sense of shared literary heritage. This event was not only a mere initiation but a testament to the institution's commitment to nurturing academic growth, fostering creativity, and instilling a sense of pride in being part of the VSES family.
