Vivekananda School of English Studies (VSES)

Vivekalam, the literary society of VSES, held its first event for the season, Kalam-e-Azad. It was an invigorating creative writing workshop held by Dr. Barnali Saha. From how to write interesting characters to mysterious plot settings, Dr. Barnali covered all the broader aspects and important elements to creative writing. Along with short lectures on the characteristics of creative writing, she incorporated interesting activities like Image Building, where the students were given 1 minute to choose any random object around them and write one sentence on it. The second short activity was called Emptying Your Pockets, where the students were given 2 mins to write down what are the things that their character would have on them. Both the activities showed active participation from the students and many of them came up with very interesting answers. In total we had around 17 active participants. Post the workshop, Dr. Barnali gave a prompt and allowed the students to write a short story and submit the next day.
