The Translation and Adaptation Club of VSES, in collaboration with Nazariya, the Visual Arts and Cine Club of VSES, hosted a captivating and heartfelt film screening of "Funny Boy" and “I don't want to go back alone.” “Funny Boy,” directed by Deepa Mehta and released in 2020, the movie delves into the issues of sexuality and self-realization through the eyes of a young boy labeled as "funny." It proved to be thought-provoking, shedding light on the challenges faced by marginalized individuals.

Following the film screening, a short story was presented, leading to a discussion centered around the daily struggles faced by LGBTQ+ and disabled individuals and their profound impact on personal growth. The audience actively engaged in sharing their personal encounters, revealing how such experiences had transformed their perspectives on queer and disabled communities. This event not only provided an insight into the lives of these individuals but also fostered a greater sense of understanding.

The collaborative effort between both VSES clubs resulted in a wonderful film screening and an informative discussion. The event served as a platform for the audience to broaden their mindsets regarding inclusivity and promote a more inclusive society.
