Faculty Development Programme on "Labour Codes: Reforms, Compliance and Workplace Governance"

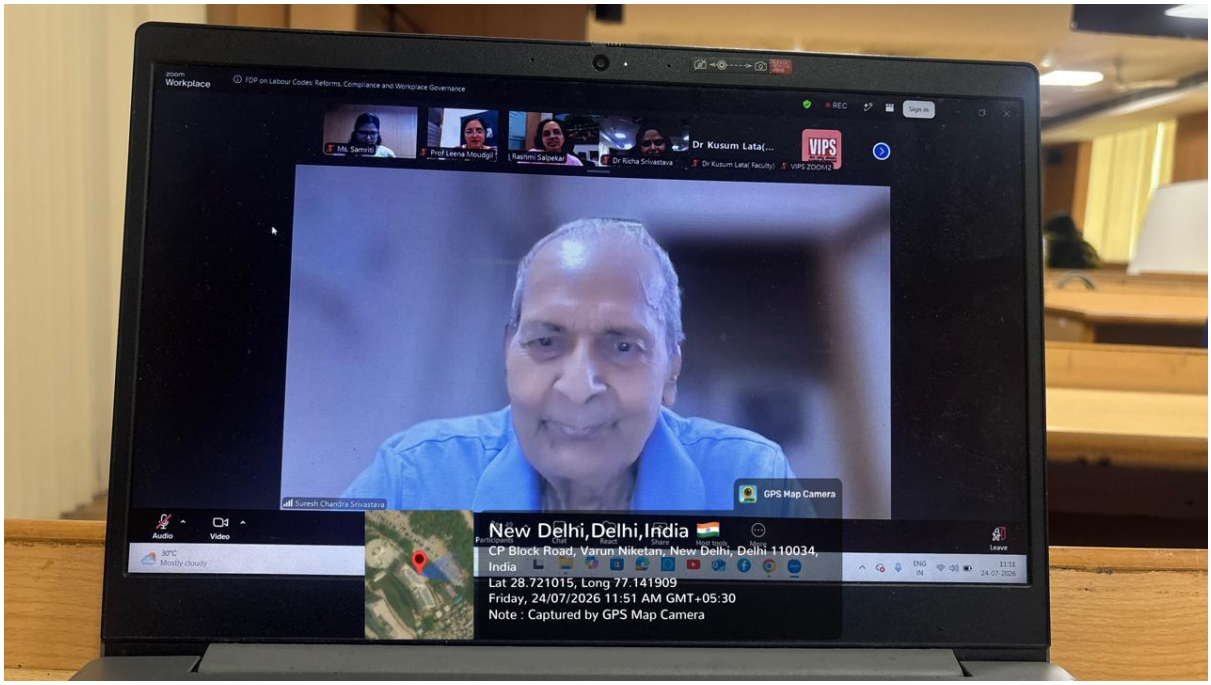

Centre for Legal Research and Development, Vivekananda School of Law and Legal Studies (VSLLS), Vivekananda Institute of Professional Studies–Technical Campus (VIPS-TC), successfully organized an online Faculty Development Programme (FDP) on "Labour Codes: Reforms, Compliance and Workplace Governance" from 21st to 28th July 2026.

The inaugural session was delivered by Prof. Dr. V. Sudesh, Senior Professor and Principal, University Law College, Bangalore University, who introduced the foundational principles and contemporary significance of the Labour Codes. The FDP featured a series of technical sessions conducted by distinguished academicians, industry experts, and members of the Labour Law Subject Group, covering the key reforms, implementation challenges, and policy implications of the Labour Codes. Notable contributions included expert lectures by Prof. S. C. Srivastava, Prof. Dr. Kavita Solanki, Professor, USLLS, GGSIPU and Mr. Vikas Kundal, Regional Director, Employees' State Insurance Corporation, Jammu & Kashmir and Ladak. Dr. Otojit Kshetrimayum, Research Fellow, V.V. Giri National Labour Institute delivered valedictory address.

The Faculty Development Programme provided participants an insightful academic discourse on legislative reforms, regulatory compliance, implementation challenges, and workplace governance. The programme proved to be an enriching platform for academicians, researchers, legal practitioners, and professionals to engage with contemporary developments in labour law and policy.

Labour Codes: A Structural Reform Lens
It is in this context that the four labour codes represent a significant institutional re-architecture of India's labour market governance:
-Reduce regulatory fragmentation
-Address firm-size disincentives
-Facilitate formalisation
-Enable smoother structural transformation
The critical question is not whether labour codes are "pro-labour" or "pro-industry," but whether they can alter the incentives that historically led to small firm size, high informality, and poor-job growth.
