World Earth Day

25 April 2022

Fusion, the Cultural Society of VSIT, hosted a World Earth Day event on 25th April 2022, with the 'Go Green' initiative to raise awareness about environmental preservation through a mix of art disciplines such as dance, music, theatre, photography, and crafting in the VIPS auditorium. The event was well planned and successfully executed by the cultural team under the supervision of the Dean of VSIT, Prof. (Dr.) Supriya Madan. The program commenced with the water sapling ceremony by the esteemed guests of the event, Shri Anand Sharma and Dr. A.K. Haritash. The eminent speakers were felicitated by the Chairperson of VSIT, Prof. (Dr.) Sidharth Mishra and the Dean of VSIT.

Alankrit – The Art & Craft society of VSIT organized an exhibition in the auditorium. Students presented their handmade and unique selected artworks on the themes – Landscape, Painting, Doodles, Still Life, Calligraphy, Mandala, and Quilling. Frames – The Photography society of VSIT organized an exhibition at the auditorium entrance. The photography enthusiasts displayed their beautifully captured pictures on the theme – NaturaLife. The guests were fascinated by the original artworks of the students and appreciated them wholeheartedly.

There were a series of performances dedicated to environmental sustainability performed by the student members of Fusion. A self-composed poem titled ‘Paribhavna’ was recited by Nakul Maini. It depicted the Earth as a victim of human atrocities, the Moon as an agitated entity trying to rid Earth of its troublesome species that humanity has evolved into, and Earth Day as a common ground where some strive to acknowledge and make amendments for one day.

A melodious musical performance titled ‘Parirakshan’ was performed by the students of Dhwanit (Music society of VSIT). The talented vocalists performed a mix of songs that were pertinent to the theme.

An oath ceremony was conducted where the cultural faculty team along with the student presidents of all societies under FUSION and the audience took an oath regarding the conservation of the environment and promised to nurture and save mother earth.

Prof. (Dr.) Supriya Madan delivered the welcome speech. She put light on various environmental hazards that are causing threats to life on Earth. Her words ignited an energetic and enthusiastic ambiance in the auditorium. To add more zeal to the event, our esteemed dignitaries enlightened the students with their precious words of wisdom.

Shri Anand Sharma, Additional Director General / Scientist -G /Head, Regional Metrological Centre, Indian Metrological Department, expressed his thoughts on a variety of environmental issues. He stated that the way we live is changing in front of our eyes. The change will occur when a sufficient number of people band together and bring a positive change. Rather than seeking hope, we must begin to create it.

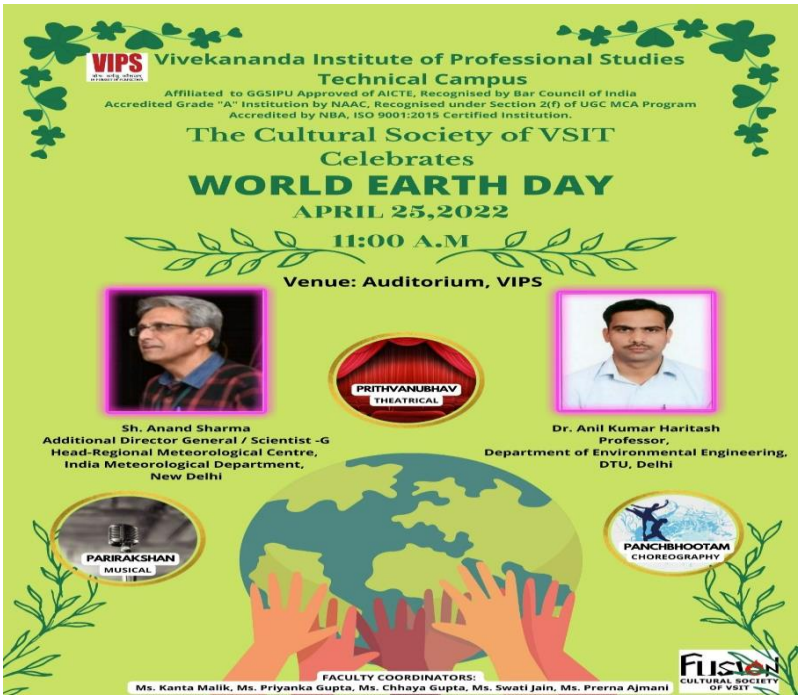

Dr. A.K. Haritash, Professor in the Department of Environmental Engineering, Delhi Technological University, discussed environmental hazards, government policies, and people's attempts to protect the earth. Without sustainable management and equitable development of natural resources, future generations face terrible living conditions. Now is the moment to listen to unborn generations and make the earth a better place to survive.

A theatrical play titled ‘Prithvanubhav’ was performed that channeled the efforts of three prestigious societies, Tamasha (Theatre society of VSIT), Dhwanit, and Dazzle (Dance society of VSIT). This was an exceptional display of the talent of actors, musicians, and dancers. The play conveyed the idea that years and decades of depletion of the earth's natural resources began simply because of mankind's selfish decisions for flora and fauna that would have been freely treasured otherwise.

Last but not the least, there was a mesmerizing dance performance by Dazzle, ‘Panchbhootam’, which depicted the five elements of nature- fire, earth, water, air, and space in a creative manner.

The event concluded successfully with the vote of thanks by the Dean mam. She praised the entire VSIT cultural team for working exceedingly hard to ensure that they left no stone unturned in their active and true engagement.
